DENVER, Nov. 1—José Sanchez, son of Sheriff Jesus H. Sanchez of Valencia county, N. M., today confessed that he fired the shot that killed his wife in the Colorado House early Saturday morning. He alleges, however, that the shooting was accidental. His statement conflicts in many particulars with known circumstances, and the police claim there will be no difficulty in proving him guilty of murder. Sanchez said he was advised by a friend, "Mexican Pete" Everett, a prize fighter, to say Mrs. Sanchez was shot by someting the colorado House early Saturday who entered the room, and Everett has been arrested. He denies that he gave Sanchez such advice.

patch.] The great campaign for Mayor of Greater New York was brought to a close tonight amid enthusiasm that has no parallel in history. Never before has so much interest been manifested in the outcome of a political contest as in this, the greatest of American cities. The fight for Mayor has been long and bitter. From the moment of the passage of the Greater New York chartely unexampled interest has been manifested in this contest. The people of enlarged New York are, and have been, as much concerned in the fight for Mayor this year as last year's Presidential campaign. Then the fight was for the preservation of the nation's honor; now, for the city's. From the very beginning of this remarkable campaign, the contest has been between reformers and bosses.

Wyck's manager, issued a statement which he estimated the Democratic candidate's vote in Greater New York at 240,000. He expects 148,000 in the present city of New York, 84,000 in Brooklyn and 8375 in the boroughs of Queens and Richmond. Grant places Henry George's vote at 20,000 to 25,000, and gives Tracy and Low 235,300 divided betwen them.

Charles Steckler, for the Citizens' Union, claims a plurality of 27,000 for Low over Van Wyck in the present city of New York and in support gives for New York and Low 235,300 divided betwen them.

A nondescript band of claim the election. disgruntled Republicans, styling themselves reformers, headed by Seth Low, expect to capture the Mayoralty banner, but on the eve of the fight they have no more show of success than a snowball in hell. Gen. Tracy, soldier and statesman candidate of the Republican party, has practically thrown up the sponge, adnitting defeat, although his managers, Platt and Quigg, are still hopeful. Seth Low, the renegade and hypocritical reformer and chief obstacle in Republican success, is tonight the most spised man since Bos Tweed. Had it certainly have been elected.

Van Wyck of French ball fame, the tool events have occurred which have in of Boss Croker and John Sheehan of turn upset the calculations of the p Tammany Hall, looms up as the next Mayor of Greater New York. His sucess was only made possible by a divided Republican vote.

Since the death of Henry George housands of voters have been swung nto line for Van Wyck, but his success eemed assured even before this. Henry George, the younger, will poll considerable vote, but he possesses less strength than did his dead

Then came the nomination of Seth

The death of Henry George, of course, will make a difference in the pluralities, but it will hardly affect the esults, 'Not even sanguine Republic ans give Tracy or Low a chance with the Tammany candidate. Low has killed Tracy, or Tracy has killed Low just as you please. The George vote, it is thought, will be cut in thirds, going to George, Jr., Low and Van Wyck.

Popular prophecy places the candidates as follows: Van Wyck, Low, Tracy, George. Betting is 3½ on Van

The greatest interest in the election outside of New York City centers in Maryland and Ohio. Dispatches from Columbus say that on the eve of the great election the chances for Hanna's great election the chances for Hanna's success seem certain. Indications are that the Republicans will control the Legislature, in spite of all the opposition that has been brought to bear against them. Giving the Democrats all the advantage possible by counting doubtful counties in the Democratic column, they will not have enough votes to control a majority on with votes to control a majority on joint ballot in the Legislature.

In Maryland, while the outlook to

The Democrats also expect to carry their city ticket, although they generally seem to base their strongest hopes seem to base their upon the Legislature.

LASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT 1 NEW YORK, Nov. 1.-In estimates and claims in the Greater New York campain given out today, Chairman Quigg for the Republicans says the county committee confidently expects the election of Gen. Tracy, and is also the election of Gen. Tracy, and is also the Committee Commit confident that Low will not carry a esingle assembly district in the present city of New York. According to Mr. Quigg the ratio of votes between Low and Tracy will be 3½ to 1, and he expects Tracy to poll a total of 200,000.

CAMPAIGN OF SURPRISES. Four Notable Events Disturbed the Situation in New York.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The most sensational political campaign in the filstory of New York ended tonight. Not a day for the past month has been void of exciting incidents: A few months ago it seemed as though there would be as straight fight between the Republicans and Democrats, with the odds in favor of the latter on account of the opposition to the Radnes liquor law, a Republican measure, which requires not been for him, Gen. Tracy would saloons to pay a high license and recertainly have been elected.

But, as it is, the Republican party seems to stand on the brink of defeat.

The Citizens' Union leaders asserted that the regular Republican organization and its manager were quite as offensive to good citizens as those of Tammany.

The second startling event was the return from Europe of Tammany's additional comments of the country of the country

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—The win-ter racing season opened today at the Ingleside track. During the past six months many improvements have been made at this delightfully-situated race course. The Pacific Coast Jockey Club has expended $30,000 in beautifying the grounds and improving the track, and this great amount of labor was appar-ent to those who visited Ingleside to-opening-day attendance, was very fair. The betting was good, and sixteen bookmakers had about all they could attend to. The big bettors, however, seem content to wait until they can get a line on the horses. The weather was cloudy and cool today and the track in perfect condition.

A good field $^{1} acced the barrier for this race. In the first attempt all got under the barrier except Newsgatherer and Flamelia. These two were caught in the barrier, and before they could extricate themselves the rest of the field were half a furlong away. Starter Caldwell hesitated about calling them back, and before the bell was rung for the jockeys to return they were a quarter of a mile away and did not hear. The horses were under full sway and ran for half a mile before they could be recalled. The crowd was very much displeased at the calling back of the horses, as both of the horses that were left had scarcely any following in the betting. Besides, in the first race, Mr. Caldwell had left the two favorites, namely, Satsuma and Summertime, at the post, when the remainder of the field could have been called back without trouble. The horses were finally sent away in the University stakes to a straggling start, with Horatio in the lead. He ran in front to the half, where he was overtaken by Altamax, and the two ran together to the last turn. Freeman brought up Hohenzollern and he was second to Altamax into the stretch. The Burns & Waterhouse crack responded readily to Hennessy's urging and won handily, while Hohenzollern had a hard drive to beat Horatio for the place. In this race Flamelia brokeher leg at the last turn and had to be destroyed. She was the property of Charles Fair.

Ten Per Cent. of the Purchase Price Paid Down and the Rest to Be Forthcoming in Ninety Days.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OMAHA (Neb.,) Nov. 1.-The inter est of the United States government in the Union Pacific Railroad terminated at 11:45 o'clock this morning when, at the foreclosure sale of the mortgage held by the United States, the road was purchased by the committee of eastern capitalists formed for its organization. The full amount accruing to the United States from the sale cannot be given exactly, but is estimated to be $58,065,748.40. It was impossible to de-termine the full amount at the time of sale for the reason that the monthly statement made by the Secretary of the Treasury to the management of the Union Pacific on the first of every month was not available today, and it was found necessary to esti-mate some items, although it is admitted by both sides that the estimates are approximately correct. The amount due the government is made up as follows: Principal of debt, $27,236,512. Interest paid by the government up to September 30, 1897, $30,830,886.37, Interest accrued by September 30 and still unpaid, $286,147.69.

Interest accrued in October, $95,382.56.
Total due the government, $58,448,-

Against this are the following credits: Cash and bonds in sinking fund, $18,-182,466.53. Estimated credits for the quarter ending September 30, and for the month of October, including govern-

Total credit, $18,565.646.74.

Total debt of the railroad to the government, $58,448,928.61.

Total credit of the railroad with the government, $18,565,646.74.

Balance and amount bid by Reorganization Committee, $39,883,281.87.

The sinking fund bonds sold for $13,-645,250.89.

Total bids by Reorganization Committee, $53,522,532.76.

The amount earned by the road during the quarter ended September 30 and during the month of October is estimated, but is practically correct, and as the government will simply retain the cash, crediting the amount on the bids of the committee, the amount to be turned over as a consequence of the sales is $58,065,748.40.

After the conclusion of the sale, Concomment, was assured by the committee that if the amounts were net accurately figured, should they differ from the figures given above, whatever may be lacking will be paid by the committee and will in no way be allowed to interfere with the confirmation of the sale.

For over an hour a crowd had been gathering to witness, the sale, and with great difficulty Mr. Cornish was able to get sufficient room to enable him to work. Finally he jammed himself, back into the corner of the doorway with one shoulder against the brick wall, find prepared for business.

The crowd, not over 500 all 4old, packed so closely around the doorway and up in front of the center of the building that the members of the Reorganization Committee, the men who came out to buy the road, were unfable to see anything or hear a word of what was going on. Receiver Mink, from an upper window, leaned out to watch the proceedings below. Those of the committee and connected with it present were: Receivers John W. Doane, E. Ellery Anderson, Gen. Mr. Cornish carried under his arm a large portfolio bound with regulation red tape, and as soon as the crowd gave him room to extend his arms he untied the strings and drew forth a number of papers. Selecting one, he replaced the others, and, holding it out, sald; "Gentlemen, I am here to sell certain railroad properties pursuant to a decree of the United States Circuit Court. I

The government has now the sinking fund of the road and the amount of the guarantee check put up by the Reorganization Committee. Mr. Cornish, after reading the protest, announced that any prospective purchaser of the road must be wil ive purchaser of the road must be willing to encounter the consequences of the protest, and that no guarantee of their ownership by the Union Pacific was included in the sale. This was agreeable to the Reorganization Committee and the sale proceeded.

None of the Reorganization Committee cared to make any statement regarding the Kansas Pacific sale which has been postponed until December 15. None of them would say a word as to whether the committee intended to bid or not.

W. A. Holywell, the girl's father, was the first witness called. He expressed utter ignorance of the person mentioned in the mysterious letter, and also denied that he had ever written his daughter that he had failed in business. As far as he knew, she was happy and contented.

Dr. Eastman, who attended the girl, stated that he believed from her condition and from her own remarks, that she was addicted to the use of opiates. When he had restored her to consciousness Monday night, after she had taken an overdose of morphine, she told him that she was in the habit of taking opiates and that she was sorry she had not taken enough to put her to sleep forever. He described her condition as that of a person predisposed to melancholia, and expressed the view that she had committed suicide while in a depressed state of mind.

Mrs. Berg, the girl's former landlady testified that Miss Holywell said she had brain fever twice and feared she would eventually lose her reason. The girl was peculiar and excitable.

Mrs. Durgin, with whom the girl resided, testified that Miss Holywell was Louise Garland testified that she had been asked to look after Anna by Miss Gleason, who said the girl was in trouble. Louis Patton and Druggist Lorin testified that they sold morphine to the young woman who gave the name of Miss Lablanche, and her residence as No. 2040 Durant avenue, which proved to be a vacant lot. The girl spoke as though addicted to the use of the drug, and wanted to use it hypodermically. They were unable to identify the remains as those of the young woman to whom they sold the drug.

Charles McNulty, another druggist, testified that he sold morphine in powders to a girl eight weeks ago.

The girl's father was then recalled and testified that he knew no, one by the name of Elis King or R. J. Blythe. Further 1, aring was postponed until tomorrow night.

FATHER GETS THE BODY. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OAKLAND, Nov. 1 .- Coroner Baldmission to take his daughter's body to Redlands before the completion of the inquest. He left Berkeley with the corpse at 4:30 p.m., going directly to the family home, where the funeral will be held. The father refuses to believe that his daughter committed suicide. He says she took too much narcotic by mistake to relieve pain.

Among the strange coincidences in the case is the discovery of a man whose name is Eli R. King. The name signed to the mysterious letter that Miss Hollywell received last Monday is Elis R. King. The similarity is striking, but Eli R. King seems to have absolutely no connection with the affair. He lives at Los Angeles and was in Ventura tonight. mission to take his daughter's body to

on the Jury.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] HOLLISTER, Nov. 1.—The sixth day of the trial of John Ashhurst for the killing of Frank Lynch near the New Idria mines on September 12, opened today with a vigorous cross-examina-tion of Dick Rogers by the prosecution. Rogers was badly tangled up, and according to his testimony today it was impossible for him to have seen the shooting as testified to by him on preliminary examination.

Manuel Gonzales, keeper of the saloon

Manuel Gonzales, keeper of the saloon where the shooting occurred, testified that Lynch, Orobueno and Ashhurst drank at his bar in the morning. Orebueno jeered Ashhurst about his cattle being stolen, saying: "Tve just thrown $40 on the bar which I got for your cattle." Lynch thereupop said: "Tve stolen your cattle for three years; and will continue to do so."

Defendant John Ashhurst testified to being told by different parties of Lynch's threats against him, and that he thought the deceased was going to shoot when he dismounted from his horse. He considered Lynch a dangerous man, and was in fear of assassination for eight years past. He positively denied that he took a gun from the ranch to kill Lynch. Ashhurst told a straight story, and made a good impression. Arguments will commence tomorrow at noon.

She appeared to be wanting assistance, but gave no further indications as the Pilot hove nearer, and Capt. Johnson again stood off. The schooner was finally lost sight of. At no time could her name be distinguished, but her description fits the schooner Janus, which left here September 5 with a party of twelve California men bound for Copper River.

REPORTS EXAGGERATED. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SEATTLE (Wash.,) Nov. 1.—Several riving at Port Townsend today on the returning miners from Cook's Iulet arriving at Port Townsend today on the schooner Norman Sunde reached this city tonight. Their story does not agree with the one sent out from Port Townsend in respect to the amount of gold brought down on the Sunde. Instead of the amount being $46,000, they say that it will not exceed $10,000. They discredit the statement heretofore made that this year's output of the Cook's Inlet region would reach $1,000,000. One quarter of that figure, they say, would be nearer the truth. The wountry is not yet developed. While there is no big bonanza on Cook's Inlet, there are plenty of paying claims. Mills Creek is the best of all. The Polly Mining Company located there averaged during the season, with twenty men working, $1000 a day, or $50 to the man. Claims run all the way from 25 cents to $50 a day. It is a significant fact that in Cook's Inlet the Klondike fever is raging with virulence, and a majority of those coming out intend to go to the Yukon. On her downward trip the Sunde encountered a severe storm off Dixon's Entrance. She was becalmed five days when off Cape Flattery.

Mrs. Mary Flood, a daughter of William Dunphy, for a citation commanding all the heirs to appear in court on a certain day and assert such claim as they may have in the estate. The citation was issued, fixing Monday, January 10, 1898, as the day for such appearance.

William Dunphy died in September. 1892, leaving an estate valued at $2,369, 128. It consisted of property in. San Francisco, a cattle ranch of 100,000 acres in Nevada, a farm of 15,000 acres near Soledad, an enormous tract of land in Texas, one-half of the Rancho Poso de los Ositos, in Monterey county, a quartz mine in Fresno county, and varjous pieces of property in other parts of the State. By his will, William Dunphy left the entire estate to his widow and daughter. Jebbie, as trustees, to hold it in trust in equal shares for his widow, his son, James C. Dunphy: his two daughters, Jennie and Mrs. Flood, and his granddaughter, Viola Piercy.

It was supposed when the petition of Mrs. Flood was prepared that it was an amicable arrangement to determine the respective interests of the several heirs in the estate. But it turns out that Miss Jennie Dunphy, one of the trustees and devisees under the will, may contest the proposed agreement and arrangement, and thus provoke extensive litigation. This is said to be the first time a petition of this kind has been presented since the Blythe case.

"In England we are not accustomed to look to our military men for sympathetic advice on the treatment of inferior races. ANDERSON (Ind.,) Nov. 1 .- The for mation of a strawboard trust controll-ing every plant in the country has been effected, and will begin operations at once. It includes the twelve independent plants and those owned by the American Strawboard Company. The last two to be brought in were the Carthage, Ind., and the Peoria, Ill.,

The Glad Hand from San Jose. [The Mercury:] The Mercury gladly takes hand with the Los Angeles Times on the proposition that "Cali-fornians should be loyal to California without reserve, and should work in harmony to promote the best interests of the whole State. By such methods, alone, can the great destiny of this great State be fully realized."

[Brooklyn Eagle:] Keir Hardie, emulous of being known as the Debş of England, proposes that, in order to help the striking engineers, all the industries of England shall be brought to a standstill and the nation paralyzed. Sometimes the people take a hand in these matters and striker against the strikers.

Miss Twiss, eldest daughter of Horac-Twiss, married the editor of the Lon-don Times, and, on becoming a widow married his successor. John Delane

Health is the best inheritance. It leaves its influence even to the third and fourth generation. What greater happiness has life in store for any man than to live to a green old age surrounded by his children and his children's children, and see them green old age surrounded by his children and his children's children, and see them all robust, happy and successful. Happy the man who lives to carve at the wedding suppers of his grandchildren. Picture your self a gray-haired but hearty old man at the head of the table at your grandson's wedding, thanking your Maker for the blessing of long life, and asking the blessing of good heaith for generations yet unborn. It lies in almost every man's power to be thus blessed if he will. If he will only obey Nature's laws and be watchful of his health, he will have long life and happiness.

The best preserver of health is Dr. Pierce's Golden-Medical Discovery. It keeps the digestion perfect, the liver active, and the blood pure. It is the best flesh-builder and nerve invigorator. The man, who resorts to it whenever he feels any symptoms of approaching ill-health will live to a hearty old age. Druggists sell it. Nothing else is "just as good."

J. B. Holt, of Whittens Stand, Wayne Co.

"Just as good."

J. B. Holt, of Whittens Stand, Wayne Co., Tenn., writes: "In October, 1550, I was takenwith a hurting in the back of my neck which steadily grew worse. I consulted a doctor. He gave me is course of treatment but I gradually grew worse under it. It last my trouble ran Into what was called spinal affection." I could hardly walk about at all. Finally I became as helpless as a child. I wrote you at Buffalo, N., in regard to my candition and you answered me promptly and prescribed Dr. Fierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took the Discovery and soon got well. My health continues good."

Druggists sell Dr. Fierce's Pleasant Pal.

We raise everything in this valley; nature has done more for this valley than any other place in the State. We cut our alfalfa 7 to 9 times a year, and it's the greatest dairy country you ever saw. Within a radius of 4 miles we have 12 creameries and 2 cheese factories; 4 per cent. milk is selling at $1.10; and for cows, hogs, corn, deciduous fruits, tobacco, pumpkins, citrons, beets, turkeys, chickens and vegetables this valley beats the world. A free water-right goes with every ranch I sell. We have had inches of rain up to date.

Swedish Fad in House Furnishing.
[Chicago Times-Herald:] Swedir' furnishings nowadays "beat the Dutch" in the estimation of up-to-date housewives. Delft ware, Flemish oak, blue and white rooms have been somewhat overdone, and at last one Swedish woman in this city is profiting by the desire for a change. She is kept busy executing her peculiar national needlework on curtains, cushions and chair coverings. They are generally of coarse linen, heavily wrought with red and blue stitchery in the queer patterns that were in vogue when vikings sailed the northern seas; and they look enduring enough to have lasted ever since. She also has a cabinet-maker put together wooden tables, stools and cupboards like those the Swedish housefather sloyds for himself through the long winter evenings; then she burns and colors them in the quaint peasant style with bold interlacing designs, and she paints the panels with goblins, stiff, flaxon-haired maidens, white bears or a dragon, "with its crest and scales of green," such as Queen Sigrid the haughty beheld when Her maidens were seated around her knee.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—John C. Shee-nan, leader of Tammany Hall, has is-sued a statement, in which he says: 'The great municipal contest is about o close. It will be memorable in the distory of American politics. It will re-ult in a great Democratic victory. As In the days of Thomas Jefferson, the In the days of Thomas Jefferson, the Democratic party in this coutest has been arrayed against the party who believe that the masses of the people have no voice in the selection of their officials. It has had to fight against the greed of the party of monopolists, with the Federal administration at its head. For the past three years the city of New York has been governed by the party which has for its motto: I am holier than thou, and which has given us the most wasteful, extravagant and corrupt administration that the city of New York has ever experienced. "Unquestionably the results tomorrow night will verify the claims during the canvass, and will result in a crushing defeat for the enemies of the Democratic party and the enemies of the common people, and in the triumphant election of Robert A. IN NEW YORK STATE.

Situation is Mixed and Forecasts are Hard to Make. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ALBANY (N.W.,) Nov. 1.—In every nunicipality of the State a vigorous ampaign is being prosecuted for the nunicipal control, and the blanket balot, instead of proving a deterrent to interpal control, and the binate toalist, instead of proving a deterrent to the independent nomination, has led, seemingly, to the creation of more parties than have ever before held place in the elections of the city. These things, enough in themselves to claim all the attention of the voters, are further multiplied by the adoption of a campaign for Judge of the Court of Appeals that has started the two great parties to very active efforts in the endeavor, not so much to gain the place for the candidate, as to demonstrate in this off year of State politics that the party of one or the other is dominant.

The contest for the control of the Assembly is influenced in a great meastre by the bitterness of the local campaigns, and forecasts of some months ago, giving great; gains for the Democrats, are not in effect now. Particularly is this so in the Greater New York district, where the splitting up of the larly is this so in the Greater New York district, where the splitting up of the various party votes has led to complications that in many Democratic districts will lead to the election of Republicans, and in the Republican districts will give Democrats a chance. To attempt to forecast the result with any degree of certainty would be impossible, but it is claimed that in the entire State the Democrats will gain about thirty members over the number of last year.

The Democratic Chairman Audaciously Claims a Plurality.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—The cam-paign just closing has been exception-ally quiet, the only feature having been the aggressive canvass of Dr. Swallow, the Prohibition candidate for State Treasurer, which has been wholly on the lines of reform in politics, with little or mareference to the liquor question. The State officers to be chosen are State Treasurer and Auditor-General.

DENVER (Colo.,) Nov. 1.-Although here are but three candidates of Judge of the Supreme Court, being the only State office to be filld tomorrow, the ballot to be voted in this city contains twenty-two different lickets bearing the names of nominees, for county offices. Hayt (Rep.,) and William H. Gabbert (Dem. and Pop.,) for Judge of the Supreme Gaurt appears to be very close. Even money is being wagered on the result in the poolrooms tonight.

The Republicans say they can los Chairman Walsh of the Democratic committee is claiming that his party will lose no votes, but will gain some from the gold Democrats. He says the Republican's last year polled 70,-000 in excess of their normal, vote, which was 220,000 at high water mark until last year. He thinks those 70,000 votes were largely gold Democrats and that those will this year mostly vote for their party ticket.

The gold Democrats claim 15,000 to 20,000 votes. The Prohibitionists claim 20,000. The fact is that after the high tide of last year there is no telling what will happen this year. Chairman Walsh of the Democratic

Following the election of Harrison in '88, the Democrats in '89 elected Campbell Governor and secured a Legislature that made Brice Senator. Following the reflection of Cleveland in '92 came the great triumph of Mc-Kinley for Governor and the return of Sherman to the Senate.

The Democrats now say that, following the election of McKinley in 1896, history will repeat itself on the record of "off years."

The Democrats are claiming Hamilton county by a large plurality and on account of its fourteen members of the Legislature they also claim, a majority in that body for the election of a United States Senator. The Republicans claim a large plurality on their state ticket and that they will have a majority in the Legislature without Hamilton county. The Republicans here tonight are offering bets even on electing their candidates for the Legislature in Hamilton, but they concede that the result for the county offices will be close.

A HOME PRODUCT IN THE CONCRETE.

The question of a supply of hese is now before the Fire Commissioners, and, as a corrollary thereto, the question of home products. If there is as good fire hose manufactured in Califor-nia as comes from the East—if it meets all tests as to strength, and is not higher in price—it is the duty of the commission, not only in equity, but under the law, to patronize the home man ufacturer. The Times is given to un-derstand that a grade of fire hose is being turned out of a San Francisco fac-tory equal to that made anywhere in the United States, and that, according to the bids that have been submitted,

these are the facts, there is no shadov

BLANCO IN COMMAND.

Gen. Blanco, the new captain-gen and is now in command of the Spanish forces in the island. Gen. Weyler has mbarked for Spain, and a new policy to be tried. The success or failure of the new regime must be determined by Unfortunately for Spain and for Gen. Blanco, the policy about to be inaugurated does not promise to be success nolishment of the objects for which it is designed. In point of fact it does not differ very materially from the policy pursued under the Wey ler regime, except that it proposes ome sort of autonomy. The intentions gard have been so vaguely set forth that up to the present time nobody seems to know just what system of home rule is to be offered to Cuba Even Gen. Blanco, apparently, has no very definite ideas on this subject, for he makes no mention of it in the proclamation issued by he upon taking formal demand of the Spanish army in Cuba. But it is not a matter of great importance, in any eyent; for au-tonomy is not what the Cuban insurgents are contending for at the present stage of the conflict. There was a time when propositions for autonomy would have been willingly accepted by the in surgents. But that time is past, and i is now probably past forever. The Cu bans now demand absolute political in-dependence, and will be satisfied with nothing less. This Spain positively re hence there is but little prospect that the terrible struggle will cease un til one or the other of the combatants s so fár exhausted as to be unable to continue the contest.

In one respect the condition of affairs in Cuba is likely to be improved by the retirement of Weyler. Gen Blanchas the reputation of being a human man, though a soldier. The inhuman modes of warfare pursued by Weyler will be succeeded, let us hope, by methods more in accord with the practices of civilized warfare. The butchery of women and children, the concentration and slow starvation of non-combatants, the murder of the wounded in hospitals, and the wanton destruction of private property by fire, are bar-barous crimes, not warfare. If these inhuman practices are abandoned un der the new regime, the change will be a great gain for Cuba, for Spain, and for civilization itself. Altogether, the outlook for a cessa. tion of the Cuban war in the near fu-ture is far from auspicious. Present conditions seem to foreshadow a long continuance of the struggle, with vic tory for Spain becoming less and less a probability. VACCINATION.

The question of whether vaccination is efficacious as a preventive of small pox is by no means settled, as some of the medical profession would have us believe. On the contrary, there appears to be a steadily grow ing opposition to the practice in Eu rope. At a London police court, recently, a man appeared in response to a summons charging him with refusing to allow the vaccination, in accordance with the law, of his infant daughter. The man has a large family, and this was the sixty-fifth time that he had appeared before the bench for placing one or another of his children out of the jurisdiction of vaccination officer. The child had died a few weeks previously. In his defense the man made the following pitiful plea:

"I have suffered in patience when my home was seized and I and my family were left poor and homeless. I bowed my head in sorrowful resignation when I was taken to prison, for this truly delightful law takes no heed of the wife and the helpless children when it seizes on the breadwinner. It knows and cares nothing of seized homes and broken hearts. Am I to be silent and submissive now that my little baby is dead? Now that the grass covers the tiny coffin. Is there no remedy? Is not this persecution inhuman? Does it not go to everyone's heart?"

A dispatch from London states that the final report of the royal commission on vaccination, which has been holding sessions at intervals for the past two years, will declare in favor of optional vaccination, and will recommend the repeal of the law making the administration of the lympth com-

The report of the commission will fill five big volumes of a thousand pages each, giving an enormous amount of testimony, in addition to the opinions of the commissioners. Meanwhile, in England, the agitation against compulsory vaccination is as suming gigantic proportions, and within the past month forty-two benches of magistrates and other minor judicial tribunals have refused o enforce the law against anti-vaccinators, pending the publication of the conclusions of the royal commission.

In face of such an accumulation of contrary opinions, it certainly cannot be claimed that the question of the efficacy of vaccination is no longer open for argument. Many other medical practices, such as bleeding, and the administration of large doses of mercury, have been strongly defended by a majority of the medical profession in former days, as vaccination now is. In fact, it is not so very many years since a physician would have arrested for manslaughter, if he had neglected to extract blood from the veins of a fever patient.

It is true that those who uphold the vaccination system produce some very strong arguments on their side. Dr. Schwalbe of this city, who was attached to the medical staff of the German army during the Franco-German war, and had charge of a smallpox hospital, noticed that the German soldiers, among whom vaccination is very strictly enforced, were almost invariably free from the disease, while the French soldiers, a large proportion of whom had not been vaccinated furnished numerous victims. It is also stated that in the La Plata region of South America, where vaccination is little practiced, smallpox is still a most deadly and dreaded disease, while Europeans who go there, and have been vaccinated, are not attacked. The voluminous report of the British commission will be awaited with much interest, not only by physicians, but by all who take an interest in hygienic questions:

"THE COMMON PEOPLE."

Young Henry George, in accepting the the Mayoralty Greater New York, promises, if elected. to "bring swift justice upon those pub lic thieves and corruptionists who for so long have flaunted their deeds in the face of the common people, whom they have insulted and robbed."

The proposed punishment of public hieves and corruptionists is nendable, and it is to be hoped that, i elected, the son of the celebrated sin gle-taxer may be abundantly succes ful in all his virtuous efforts in that direction. But young Mr. George, like oung Mr. Bryan, indulges in gogic cant when he parrots that well worn and much-abused phrase ommon people." He ought to know, if ne does not, that in all our broad donain there is no such class of persons as "the common people." The term sets up a distinction which does not exist in the United States, except in the morbid imaginations of a few narrow doctrinaires, demagogues, fanatics this sort use the phrase to persuade hemselves and others that the own-abnormal minds do actually exist They work upon the prejudices and the passions of men, until those who are weak enough to be misled by then come to believe that the entire coun try is a great political and social bat tlefield, that the people are arrayed against one another in hostile classes and that the deadly enmity between one of the many sins of commission these classes is growing year by year which that corporation is guilty of, and and ripening toward a harvest of blood

Such ideas are not only false, but pernicious. They poison the minds of pernicious. They poison the minds of the unthinking, and tend, more than any other influence, to create and fos ter the evil conditions which they por have made that section a hell upon tray. The Alaska filibusters who are talkng about raising the Stars and Stripes at Dawson City will not look as young after they have spent a term of years in prison, but they will know more, if they undertake to carry out the proposed scheme of conquest. However, there is doubtless a maximum of talk about this fillbustering movement, and there will be little else. We have heard this sort of trumpeting through hats before. Meanwhile, it is gratifying to learn that 220 dogs have arrived at San Francisco, to be sent to the Yukon country for teaming purposes. If they should prove inefficient as beasts of burden, they will come in mighty handy as an article of diet, and it is diet that the proposed fillbusters are more likely to be rustling for than flag-rais-

A Washington dispatch says that "if Gen. Miles approves the findings of the court of inquiry, Capt. Lovering of the Fourth Infantry, who kicked and pricked with his sword Private Hammend at Fort Sheridan, Ill., will be tried by court-martial." If the facts of this case are as stated in the press dispatches, there can be no doubt that Capt. Lovering should be severely punished. No circumstances are conceivable which would justify an officer to the army in such brutal conduct toward a private as that with which Capt. Lovering is charged. Discipline can be maintained by proper and elegitimate methods, even if severe, without resorting to practices that would disgrace

Stirred Them Up. LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A good woman of this city, immediately after reading of this city, immediately after reading my letter, which you head-lined "Swiped," in this morning's Times, telephoned a contribution of $10 for the Associated Charities. A little later a right-spirited gentleman sent in a check for $10. Who'll be the next?

W. C. PATTERSON. The Mayhouses

ORPHEUM. Press Eldridge has ar place, as was evinced at this theater last night by shouts of laughter and endores to the number of a half-dozen or such a matter. Press is a prince from Darktown, with a merry, rollick "catch on" with a vaudeville audience to beat the band. His monologue is funny in itself and funny in the way funny in itself and funny in the way the comedian presents it, and his songs are all new and sung with a voice of more than usual sweetness for a darky simulator. He had a royal reception last night, one of the old-fashioned kind, in which, as Eldridge himself has it, the audience "takes its hands out of its pockets and gets to work."

Weston and Herbert are new on the bill this week, but they have been seen here before. They play a collection of instruments with snap and vim, and do a banjo duet that is especially good. Mr. Weston's eccentric comedy pleases the gallery gods, and that is what he is here for.

E. J. Balsden reinforces the Smith family of bicycle-riders, and does the neatest and cleverest trick-riding Los Angeles has seen. He is a master of the silent steed, and, considering the limits in which he has to perform on a stage, does numerous feats that seem impossible.

limits in which he has to perform on a stage, does numerous feats that seem impossible.

John J. Welsh does his excellent dancing turn, and O'Brien and Havel present one of the best features of the bill in their fetching act of eccentric tumbling and dancing.

Steele, the double cornetist, continues his freak performance, which is as novel as it is unmusical, and Eleanor Montana sings a couple of ballads with a thin but sweet parlor voice, the best of which is Steve Foster's plaintive melody, "The Old Kentucky Home."

The same bill every night, with the usual mid-week and Saturday matinée.

BURBANK, THEATER, "All the BURBANK. THEATER. "All the Comforts of a Home," that absurd but ever-enjoyable old comedy, opened the week hilarlously at the Burbank last evening. All the old favorites are in the cast, and fun files fast and furious until the finals harder.

week miariously at the Burbank last evening. All the old favorites are in the cast, and fun files fast and furjous until the finale brings serenity and happiness to the distracted participants in the wildly-tangled plot. Ripples of delighted laughter from the audience followed the development of the fun all through the evening, rising into roars at the climax with which each act is capped, and the piece is certain to prove one of the successes of the company's engagement. Miss Truax was fetching as the comic-opera singer, and Miss Henry was charming as the pretty ingenué. Both were given a cordial welcome, and Hagry D. Blakemore as the retired produce dealer, with a termagant of a wife and a taste for Pretty girls, also came in for a hearty greeting. Mr. Blakemore filled his role capitally, and was a large factor in the rousing of the general hilarity. Maurice Drew, the new leading man, as a scapegrace nephew who turns his uncle's residence into an impromptu boarding-house, thereby precipitating any amount of trouble, took an active part in the mirth, and was ably seconded by a cyclone of a street Arab, impersonated by Marie Blossom. GuyBates Post as a broken-down music-teacher, the possessor of a ghastly make-up and abnormally sensitive nerves, also assisted largely in the fun. Nan Mifflin was capital as the suspicious, eagle-eyed wife of Bender, and Miss Ida Banning was very charming in the small part of Pettibone's wife. Ouida Marion, a recent addition to the company, made her debut in the role of Emily Pettibone, which she filled acceptably. Harry F. Adams appears as Pettibone, the insanely jealous husband, and Charles Cleary as Smythe, Emily's lover. Maurice O'Connor takes the double role of a young man of leisure and a Highland friend of Pettibone's. Gov. Brady's Report on the Yukon

Discoveries.
[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—John G. Brady, Governor of Alaska, in his an-nual report to the Secretary of the In-terior, submitted today, says of the Yukon Valley: "Cassiar miners, who would spend their winters at Victoria, Fort Wrangel and Sitka, would often express a desire to prospect the headwaters of the Yukon. The passes were waters of the Yukon. The passes were held by the Chilkats, a tribe noted for its willingness to fight to maintain its monopoly of the fur trade. These na-tives were jealous of the white men going in. In 1882, Edd Sheiffelin built a small steamer and, with a party of five, went up the river as far as Nuluhe next season—they prospected till August. They found coarse gold everywhere. The miners were well rewarded by working the bars on Stewart River and its trib utaries before 1885. Franklin discovered coarse gold at Forty Mile Creek in the fall of 1886. While Sixty Mile Creek and Forty Mile Creek pass over into British territory, nearly all of the into British territory, nearly all of the gold diggings are on the American side. Year after year the field has been widening. But the miner is handicapped. Transportation is the great problem for the Yukon.

"The discovery of gold on the Klondike branch of the Yukon by George Cormack in August, 1896, was, no doubt, largely by accident. However that may be, it has stirred up the world. The shimments of gold by the steamers doubt, largely by accident. However that may be, it has stirred up the world. The shipments of gold by the steamers told the story. Thousands started at once, and thousands more are waiting to be more certain, and it is well that they have done so. Shiphoad after shiphoad of gold-seekers and their freight have been rushed to the extreme limit of salt-water navigation, and there they have been literally dumped upon the beach, some above high water and some below. At Skaguay more than eleven hundred locations were made and now the town of tents is giving way to the town of frame houses. These men have had a terrible time, but they are brave and started out to endure hardships. Take them as a class, they would rank far above the average manhood of the country. By hard work and bulldog tenacity some outfits went over the Skaguay trail and White Pass to the lakes and down the river. If this pass is improved and kept open during the winter, it may be possible to put over hundreds of tons of provisions and have them ready at the lakes for the break-up in the spring."

A Deadly Insuit.

[Weekly Telegraph:] While a volunteer battallon was marching from the camping ground at Rhyl to the local railway station en route for home the other afternoon a rather corpulent sergeant, who wore an exceedingly large helmet, was much disgusted by several ragged urchins, who kept running between the ranks and compelling him to "break step."

At last, losing all patience, he sharply cuffed one little sinner's ears and shouted.

"Take that, you Taffy rascal, and clear off. If you come through here again T'll shoot you."

"Garn, yer fat old fool, an' mind who ye're hittin." yelled the youngster in reply, adding, as he pointed to his aggressor's abnormal headgear: "Look here, old red tub, if yer hits me agin I'll, report yer to the war office for runnin' away with a tent." A Deadly Insult.

"The South Desires a Senator."
[San Bernardino Sun:] One of the important political editorials of the year appeared as a double leaded leader in the Los Angeles Times, Sunday morning, under the above heading. Ostensibly it was published as the answer to an article in the San Francisco Wave, headed, "What Does the South Desire?" But it is more than probable that it was suggested quite as much by the presence of a number of the leading Republicans of the State in Los Angeles last week.

But whatever inspired it, The Times voiced the sentiment of the Republicans of Southern California. Whatever else happens, this section of the State is not only geographically entitled to a Senator at Washington, but it imperatively needs one. Let the Governorship go where it will, two Senators from Northern California is one too many. Says The Times [quoting:]

We agree with the Los Angeles con-"The South Desires a Senator."

We agree with the Los Angeles con We agree with the Los Angeles contemporary when it says that the south ought not to ask nor expect the Governorship, although it is not so many years since the north took both without the asking. But if Southern California presents no gubernatorial candidate there are enough men north of Tehachepi who are willing to succeed Gov. Budd, and the south is willing that they should.

Shall We Use Force?

IChicago Tribune: Spain's reply to our offer to mediate between Spain and Cuba seems to be a polite but firm refusal, coupled with a request that we be kind enough to mind our own business. If that is so, there is nothing we can de but to resign ourselves to a continuation of the harrowing and dreadful conflict on our front doorstep, unless we are prepared to go out and kick the brutal bully off. Whether we can sware the time and take the trouble to do that is an open question which deserves serious consideration.

Shall We Use Force?

Chicago Tribune: Spain's reply to our ferror provides the official Medal swarded Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder by World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, '93. The fame achieved at all the Great Fairs rests solely on its merits as the strongest, purest and best of all the baking powders, and truly stamps Dr. Price's as "The foremost baking powder in all the world."

CHARLES F. SMURR. The Southern Pacific has lost another masterful, able and accomplished official by the death of that prince of gen-tlemen, Charles F. Smurr, the announcement of whose passing away came upon his legion of friends in Los Angeles with a sudden shock, as it was not generally known that he had been in ill-health. Mr. Smurr was with the Southern Pacific here as auditor before the closing of the gap between San Francisco and this city, when the portion of the road in this end of the State endent line. Upon the completion of the road to a connection with San Francisco, Mr. Smurr was made local agent here, a position he occupied with great credit for many years, being prooted in the early 80's to the office of ssistant general freight agent in San Francisco. Upon the resignation of L. E. Mosher as general agent in Los Angeles, in 1887, Mr. Smurr was again transferred to this city to fill the va-cancy, and given the title of assistant general freight and passenger agent, which position he occupied until his promotion to the office of general freight agent. When, from ill-health, Richard Gray was conveiled. Richard Gray was compelled to retire from the active duties of freight traffic from the active duties of freight traffic manager, Mr. Smurr was rewarded, with promotion to that position, and, like a soldier, he died in harness.

Charles F. Smurr was one of the best type of American railroaders and business men. He had a strong, active mind, was a master of details, and as an executive officer had few superiors in the country. The various positions filled by him in the service of the great corporation were such as exact the utmost of physical strength and the exercise of judgment almost equal to that demanded of a general in the movement of gigantic armies. He was never found wanting at any stage of his career.

eer. The Southern Pacific has lost a pillar of strength, and his friends a loyal comrade whom it was a liberal educa-tion to know, for, take him all in all, he was the full measure of a man.

Hall Caine's New Novel.

Hall Caine is already at work on a new novel which deals with the drink question.—[Cleveland Recorder.

INew York Sun:] Mr. Caine will be pained beyond the power of his own expression by this indiscreted disclosure. Ever shunning notoriety, composing in solitude his enormous masterpieces, nourishing upon solitude his mighty heart, hating the shrill penny trumpets of the literary sandwich men, he lives and works apart, a misty granite cliff, a lonely island of the mind. Since his secret is no longer secret, however, it lonely island of the mind. Since his secret is no longer secret, however, it may tranquilize an excited universe to say that his new masterpiece will be alcoholic, total abstinent, allopathic, homeopathic, therapeutic, pathological, hypnotic, vegetarian, physicopathic, Mahatmic, osteopathic, and hyperhyperic. It will contain 787 characters, all of which have been studied from life and repaired and corrected by 787 specialists. It will be the most sublime production of Surrey melodrama ever printed in book form. Satisfaction 18 guaranteed or money refunded.

The Mistakes of Ignorance. The Mistakes of Ignorance.
[Chicago Chronicle:] There is something to be said in defense of Miss Pauline Astor, who, it is reported, is about to bestow her hand and her $20.000.000 upon the Prince of Teck. Miss Astor has probably never been well acquainted with a good, honest, hardworking young American. She doesn't know the type. Her ideas have been formed from observation of the washed-out, anaemic imitations of Englishmen who constitute the gilded youth of New York, and naturally enough she prefers the genuine Briton to the counterfeit. If she really knewher own countrymen it is probable that Teck would sigh in vain and that Pauline would become the consort of an American sovereign instead of the wife of a petty princeling.

The Buccaneers of the Southern

Main."
[Fresno Republican:] The Los Angeles Times states very emphatically that there is no truth in the report which has been published of late in the San has been published of late in the San Francisco papers regarding a deal whereby the big town in the south is to have the Republican candidate for Governor. The Times asserts that the modest and sunny south has no aspirant for the Governorship, but what it wants and intends to have is the United States Senatorship. This statement ought to bring a great flood of joy to the perturbed soul of Oakland. It can go right on with its two-old-cat game now without the haunting fear that the buccaneers of the southern main are liable to sail into port and carry off the prize.

Active as a Tule Rooter.

[Tulare Register:] The residents and as eternally active as a tule rooter. New industries, working ten-derfeet and pulling political wires are the same to them and are faithfully attended to in season and out of seathe same to them and are faithfully attended to in season and out of season. It is their energy which makes them irresistible. Just now there is an agitation of the Senatorial question, there being plenty of material in sight for a successor to Steve White. There is not, however, a need of getting excited in the good work of demanding erights, as it is doubtful if there will be a questioning of the wisdom of selecting Senator Perkins's colleague from the region south of Tehachepi.

Hizzoner of the Picturesque Spelf-

[Riverside Press:] Mayor Snyder of Los Angeles, who owes his election largely to the picturesque criticisms of The Times on his original methods of spelling, is likely to be a candidate for Congress before the Democratic convention in the Sixth District.

Mayor Snyder's irrepressible desire t veto something, it doesn't matter what meets with a heartless lack of sympameets with a heartless lack of sympathy among the Councilmen. As a matter of common humanity they ought to pass an ordinance some day for the express purpose of allowing the Mayor to veto it, and then they should sustain his veto. Any old ordinance would week.

It might provide that policemen shall wear skirts, that all burglaries shall be committed by daylight, that pedestrians shall not walk on the sidewalks, or anything else that would offer material for a thesis from the city's chief executive. It certainly is a shame that His Honor is not permitted to enjoy, at least once, the chief preroga-tive of his office.

When a railroad wants some special privilege or franchise, it is a public enterprise in which all good citizens should be interested. When citizens want to know what the railroad is doing in matters affecting the public, it becomes at once a private concern and stands upon its dignity. A Santa Fé. official, a few days ago, refused to name the shipping point of a carload of fruit from a yellow fever district, and declared that the railroad's business was none of the public's business. As the quarantine officers promptly made it public business, the official changed his "public-be-damned" tune. But there is more than one way to kill a cat, and the official calmly declared that he didn't know the shipping point of freight hauled over his line.

The Board of Trade and other public bodies are receiving many letters of inquiry from persons in the East who wish to come to Los Angeles. From a frost-bitten town in Minnesota comes a letter saying that thirty persons will leave there soon, and that the whole population wants to come to Los Angeles, but cannot sell out. Everything indicates that a vast number of people will come to Southern California this winter.

Populist Barlow and eclectic statesman J. Mary Ann, who were thicker than three in a bed during the campaign, fell out over the loaves and fishes, and they told their troubles to Judge Shaw. J. Mary Ann swore that Barlow owed him $4000, and Barlow swore that he owed only $170. Judge Shaw said he was unable to decide which of the two eminent statesmen was the more truthful, but he made a pretty close guess and awarded J. Mary Ann $170.

A great mental feat has been accomplished by Justice Owens. In six short weeks he has succeeded in untangling the bewildering legal complications of a battery case and has arrived at the profound conclusion that Pawnbroker de Groot did not commit battery upon a Herald feporter whom he invited into his shop for the purpose of firing him out. Justice Owens, it is presumed, did not figure this out all by himself, for he had the case "under advisement." It does not appear in the learned opinion who advised him.

ENLARGED SUGAR REFINERY. Los Alamitos to Have a Thousand Tons Daily Capacity.

A contract was signed here yester-day by the Los Alamitos Sugar Company with E. H. Dyer & Co. of Cleve-land, O., for the immediate enlargement of their beet-sugar refinery from 461 tons to 1000 tons daily capacity. The machinery to be placed in the factory will be manufactured by the Kilby machinery to be placed in the factory will be manufactured by the Kilby Manufacturing Company of Cleveland, and will duplicate the present plant, which was made by that company. Mr. Kilby was present yesterday when the contract was signed.

The first season's run of the refinery has just ended. It developed a capacity of 100 tons per day in excess of that claimed for it by its designers.

Gus Dyer, one of the designers of the new American process used, said in explanation of the unexpected capacity developed: "It has had much to do with the purchase last month by W. A. Clark of thirteen square miles of adjacent lands for the refining company and with order for enlargement. It is principally due to an even adjustment of the capacities of the various parts of the process of refining. In both the German and French processes the capacities for clarifying, evaporating and crystallizing are not coequal, and the weakest link measures the strength of the whole chain, you know.

"You can truly say that we all feel that the marked success in beet-sugar refining here is very largely due to the interest aroused in it in the early stages of the enterprise by The Times."

Even the harsh lessons of experience have failed to teach him that the prompt and unvarying consequence is a snub at the hands of the Council. Nevertheless two results are achieved when-ever His Honor indulges in his penchant for opposing municipal legisla-

The first is the instant restoration of narmony in the Council. Discords are forgotten, party lines are ignored, and the Councilmen rise as one man to sit upon the city's chief executive.

The second result accomplished is that Mr. Snyder's vetoes serve as a much-needed reminder that he is still the Mayor and the nominal head of the city sovernment.

One more illustration of these facts was afforded yesterday when an ordinance that was passed last Monday was returned to the Council "without approval." The comedy that has been so often enacted was played again, with an added feature which materially increased the interest. Two of the Councilmen took occasion to administer a caustic scoring to the Mayor and intimated in no uncertain terms that his message was an impertifience. The nine Councilmen then unanimously passed the ordinance over the Mayor's yeto.

"To the Honorable City Council, Gentlemen: The inclosed orainance entitled. 'An ordinance to amend section 15 of an ordinance entitled, 'An ordinance providing for the number of persons to be employed in certain departments of the city government of the city of Los Angeles and fixing their compensation," approved July 29, 1897, and numbered 442, new series, is respectfully returned to your honorable body without my approval.

bered 442, new series, is respectfully returned to your honorable body without my approval.

"I refer you to my message of March 5, 1897. The conditions which I breddeted would prevail as a result of placing the appointive power in the matter of health department deputies in the hands of the Couneil, have become a fact. The Board of Health, as every member of your honorable body knows, has been, and is at this time, badly crippled in the discharge of its duties by reason of the fact that it has absolutely no control over the deputies in the department."

The ordinance returned by the Mayor was passed last week. It provides that the Meat and Milk Inspector of the health department shall in future be a practical butcher, instead of a veterinary. The ordinance was the result of a conference between the Board of Health and the Finance Committee.

As soon as the veto message had been read, the Council proinptly prepared to administer the usual snubbing to the Mayor. Before the vote was taken Toll rose to a question of privilege:

"I do not believe," he said with warmth, "that such a message as this should be permitted to pass without comment, even though it comes from the chief executive of the city. It represents to the people that the health department is seriously crippled by dissensions and strife. It gives to the public the impression that the affaits of the department are not properly administered. The facts do not warrant.

sensions and strike. It gives to the apparticular the impression that the affairs of the department are not properly administered. The facts do not warrant the Mayor's insinuations. The department is entirely harmonious with the possible exception of one deputy. The Council has proved its readiness to discharge inefficient employées. I am surprised that Mayor Snyder should continue to harp upon such charges as he makes. It is a gross injustice to the Council. There is one very vital reast when the Mayor should let this matter rest. There was a time when it was a matter of debate whether the Council or the Mayor should make appointments in the health department, but the question was taken into the courts and it was settled that the Council glone has this power. The Mayor should submit to the decree of the court. Why, I should think His Honor would be afraid of being arrested when he

why. I should think His Honor would be afraid of being arrested when he says the decree of the court was wrong. I feel called on to make this correction. I consider the Mayor's message is In bad taste and wrong, and that the Council should be relieved from blame which it has not deserved."

Hutchison followed in the same vein and said that if there were insubordinates in the health department it was the Mayor's duty to name them instead of making such general and indiscriminate charges. "We are called all sorts of names," concluded the Populist statesman, plaintively, "and one journal calls us freebooters, but we do not wish any unmerited censure." Hutchison then moved that the ordinance be passed notwithstanding the veto.

A TEMPORARY VACANCY One result of the Mayor's veto is leave the office of Meat and Milk Inspector vacant for a few days. The resignation of George K. Dodson, the late incumbent, took effect yesterday, and no appointment can be made before next Monday, under the new ordinance. There are numerous applicants for the office. THE HITCHING ORDINANCE. Councilmen Debate the Form of the Ordinance.

In the interval between the morning and afternoon sessions the Board of Public Works met to consider the terms of the proposed hitching ordinance, the other Councilmen and the City Attorney being present. Chairman Blanchard at first announced that the meeting would be held behind closed doors, but as there appeared to be no reason for such a proceeding beyond the natural aversion of the average Councilman to acquainting his constituents with his actions, the doors were finally thrown

THE HITCHING ORDINANCE. Pursuant to the instructions earlier in the day, the City Attorney presented a hitching ordinance. In its original form it falled to meet the views of the Councilmen and numerous conflicting amendments were offered. Hutchison moved a re-reference to the Board of Public Works, but this was happily averted by Nickell, who protested that the board had had the matter long enough.

As finally adopted the ordinance is as follows:

"Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to hitch any horse, mule or other animal, or to leave standing not in the immediate care of some person any carriage, buggy, wagon, cart or other vehicle with or without animals attached upon any public street of the city of Los Angeles herein described and set forth, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 o'clock p.m. Said streets being as follows, to wit: Main street from Sixth street to Commercial street; Spring street from Sixth street to Temple street; Broadway from Sixth street to First street; First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth streets from Broadway to Main street; Court street from Main street to Spring street; Market street from Main street to Spring street; Market street from Main street to Spring street; Street from Street to Spring street.

This section shall take effect January 1, 1898."
Section 3 exempts the Chief and Assistant Chief of the fire department while in the discharge of their duties from the provisions of the ordinance. Section 4 provides that violations of the ordinance shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding $500 or by impris-

BARLOW MUST PUT UP.

udge Shaw Decides That Brooks is Entitled to $170 of the $4000 Claimed, and That His Legal Services Were of No Value.

Marion Brooks is entitled to some of the money loaned to Congressmar Charles A. Barlow with which to make nis campaign last fall, but there is a glaring discrepancy between the amount of the judgment and the sum sued Tor. The claim upon which Brooks brought suit was $4000, half of which was charged to legal services rendered during the campaign. Bar-low admitted having borrowed various sums of money from Brooks amount ing to $170. He announced his will-ingness to pay that sum, and Judge Shaw will now allow him the privilege of doing so.

In his decision handed down ves In his decision handed down yesterday afterndon, Judge Shaw says:
"This is an action to recover of the defendant the sum of $4000, alleged to be owing to the plaintiff for money loaned and for services rendered by the plaintiff to the defendant. Two thousand dollars is claimed for the services alleged and a like amount for money loaned. A bill of particulars of the account was demanded and furnished.
"The defendant in his answer denies nished.

"The defendant in his answer denies that plaintiff rendered any services for him otherwise than as a citizen and voter in support of defendant as a candidate for Congress during the general election in November, 1896. The evidence of both plaintiff and defendant sustains this denial. There was, according to the evidence of plaintiff, some talk of suits for libel against certain newspapers during the campaism, but it is quite clear from the whole of plaintiff's testimony that, even if it is true that there was a consultation, as plaintiff claims, in regard to the advisability of beginning one or more such actions, nevertheless the object of such proposed proceedings was not to obtain damages or vindicate the character of the defendant. "The defendant in his answer denie C. C. Wright, attorney for the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, stated that the only material point of difference between bimself and Jud Rush, the attorney for the hackmen, was whether hacks should be permitted to stand on the streets in the day time. Rush said that he did not represent expressmen, and, in his opinion, they did not require the same protection that should be accorded to hackmen.

To this position President Silver took prompt exception, declaring that no such distinction could be made. Several of the Councilmen voiced the same opinion.

It was finally agreed that the matter pialntiff to begin any such suits, nor ereceived any advice about them. I am satisfied that, if any such advice was given, it was given voluntarily and without employment or expectation of compensation therefor: in fact, that it was mere casual talk, without any serious intention by either party that anything was to be done about it. Such being the case, there can be no recovery by the plaintiff or any services in that connection. Concerning the services of the plaintiff as a citizen in support of Mr. Barlow as a candidate for Congress, it is only necessary to say that no action can be maintained therefor. A previous request for such services is not a ground upon which the law will imply a promise to pay for the same.

"In regard to the money loaned, the defendant in his answer admits that he borrowed of plaintiff certain sums amounting to $170, and for that sum he offers to allow judgment. As to all the sallegations of the complaint. The evidence consists chiefly of the testimony of the plaintiff on one side and of the defendant on the other. Each was corroborated in some shight particulars as to collateral facts and circumstances, by the testimony of other witnesses. As to some small items the defendant was corroborated directly by his wife. There was some corroboration of the plaintiff in the testimony of Mr. Trask, which tended to show a tacit admission of or acquiescence in the justice of the plaintiff's claim. But Mr. Trask heard only the last few words of a long conversation and what he did hear in the nature of an admission was equivocal and can be plausibly explained on another theory. On the whole, the corroboration has about equal weight on each side, and the casè depends on the credibility to be given to the testimony and can be plausibly explained on another theory. On the whole, the corroboration has about equal weight on each side, and the case depends on the credibility to be given to the testimony of the plaintiff and defendant respectively. The plaintiff testifies positively that he loaned the defendant several sums, amounting to over $1700. The defendant testifies as positively that not a dollar of this money was loaned to dreceived by him, or by anyone for his use.

order to establish his case. The plaintiff, having failed to do this, the findings must be in favor of the defendant "Judgment will, therefore, be entered in accordance with the offer of the defendant in favor of plaintiff for $170, without cost."

A grand jury was chosen in Depart-ment One yesterday and Judge Smith ordered the members to go to work ordered the members to go to work and finish up the job as soon as possible. Thirty names were drawn from the box, resulting in the following being elected: W. J. Washburn, foreman; David Bayles, F. P. Boynton, Robinson Cahill, F. O. Cass, J. E. Courtney, C. M. Davis, Milton-Frazier G. H. Frost, Harrison Fuller, Elon Hart, George Irvine, E. M. Kellar, John Kenealy, Russel Kingcade, S. M. Landon, F. W. Partridge, G. H. Pike and Charles Prager.

Judge Smith made the usual charge to the jury, quoting the statutory instructions, after which he proceeded to offer a little advice.

"You have already been told what the law requires of you, gentlemen," he said, "but I want to warn you against a loose conception of its provisions. We have only recently discharged a grand jury, selected a year ago, which continued in session for nearly eight months. Their work was done thoroughly, it appears, and there is no necessity of going over the same ground that they covered.

"Start in where the last grand jury left off, and finish up your work as soon as you can. There is no need of investigating every little detail in the criminal line, except to ascertain whether there is any one in jail who and finish up the job as soon as pos soon as you can. There is no need of investigating every little detail in the criminal line, except to ascertain whether there is any one in jail who is being urgustly confined.

"Above all, do not allow yourselves to be influenced by persons who may come before you with a grievance which is entirely personal in its nature. There has been too much spite work in the past, and political schemes have proved the motive for much of the work thrown upon the grand juries during the past few years. I hope that you will not allow yourselves to be led into such a trap.

Judge Smith expressed the hope that the jury would finish its work by the first of the new year.

In July last the Board of Supervisors employed Mrs. Clara V. Fowler to expert the books of the county officers, as well as those of the board. Mrs. Fowler has been constantly at work, and is nearly ready to report. The result of her investigations, it is understood, will be laid before the grand jury.

BLACKMAN CASE CONTINUED. But Judge Smith Grants the Order

W. R. Blackman, the defaulting exsecretary of the Los Angeles Electric Company, was to have been tried for embezzlement yesterday in Department One of the Superior Court, but a con tinuance was secured upon an affidavi presented by F. satisfactorily secured.

Judge Smith granted the continuance

Judge Smith granted the continuance, but very reluctantly. The Blackman case had been allowed a week upon the calendar, and the trials of many important cases had been postponed to accommodate it.

"If Mr. Goodrich were in court," concluded Judge Smith, "I would compelhim to proceed with the case or fine him for contempt. I will not permit any further trifling with this court by attorneys withdrawing from a case because of fees."

Mr. Finlayson explained that he was not able to go ahead with the case, as he had been engaged merely as an assistant, and was not familiar with the line of defense outlined by his former concague.

The case will come up for trial on Thursday morning next.

They shipped March 29, 1897, made the voyage north to Port Blakeley, took on the cargo, and then sailed south to San Pedro, arriving May 21, and discharging the eargo by May 29.

The men then demanded their pay for the voyage, but the master of the schooner, B. P. Rasmussen took the ground that the voyage was not ended until they had returned to Port Blakeley, and refused. The sailors promptly libeled the schooner for the amount of their wages. Rasmussen put up as a defense that they had deserted, and could recover no money. Why are Flowers Fragrant?

Why are Flowers Fragrant?

[New York Independent:] The great leading object in nature in providing nectar and fragrance in flowers is still a subject of discussion in scientific journals. That some flowers are unable to fertilize themselves and must have the aid of insects is certain, and it is also certain that in many cases the fertilization is accomplished for the sweets which flowers furnish. But these well-ascertained facts cover but a small portion of the ground.

The fertilization is as often accomplished by insects in search of pollen as in search of honey; but it is not contended that pollen is given to flowers in order to make them attractive to insects, as is said of the sweet secretions. It is believed that nectar must be of some direct value to the plant, as well as the pollen, and the effort is to find out what is the chief office of nectar in the life history of the flower. Since thought has been turned in this direction a new class of facts is being recorded.

In California grows a lupine (Lupinus confertus,) which often takes exclusive possession of large tracts of land. It does not yield a particle of nectar. It has bright crimson-violet flowers, and

Our Wayward Sister—She Would BeServed Like the Prodigal Son.

[Escondido Advocate:] The National
City Record is out in favor of the annexation of San Diego county to Arizona. There are more reasons than one why the Record's suggestion is a good one, and if the scheme is a practical one and can be accomplished.
San Diego city and county will be a big winner by the project.

In the first place, with San Diego annexed to Arizona, the problem of a railway direct east from San Diego will be solved. Another advantage:
San Diego, instead of being a fourthrate city of a State, as she now is,
would be the seaport and metropolis of one of the best mining States in the Union, and instead of having to take what the other cities of the State do not want in the way of appropriations for harbor improvements, as is now the case, would have a united delegation in Congress to demand a fair share of the harbor appropriations. It would also give the city some prominence in State polities, something not now enjoyed.

San Diego today is heavily handicapped by the rest of the cities of California in her heroic struggle to forge ahead, but once annexed to Arizona, she would immediately step to the front as the most important commercial city in the State and would have little trouble in maintaining a prominent position among the other cities of this Coast.

San Diego can never achieve the Coast.

San Diego can never achieve the prominence that her harbor entitles her to while other cities of her cour State are so jealous of her, consequently we heartily second the motion of the Record to annex San Diego city and county to Arizona, It is a good suggestion.—[Hear! hear!]

Just a Nach'l-bawn Kicker.

Just a Nach'l-bawn Kicker.

[San Diegan-Sun:] The San José Mercury returns to the proposition to send San Diego over into Arizona, and after copying the editorial from the Los Angeles Times recently reproduced in these columns, the Mercury adds: "Alas and alack! Is it thus that Los Angeles talks to San Diego? We, of Central California, who have patiently submitted to the State-division nonsense which has been preached by certain San Diego newspapers, could not have the heart to hit them so hard as that. We like San Diego, we appreciate her natural resources, and we respect her ambition to become all that she ought to be. We do not wish to see her go to Arizona; but if that is her desire, and it is best for her, we will not be found obstructing her path of progress."

will not be found obstructing her path of progress."
That's it. Neither The Times nor the Mercury would consent to let San Diego step out of California even if it wanted to—and San Diego does not want to step out. Why, it's worth all it costs San Diego to stay in just to keep those "guys" in the Times and Mercury offices guessing on the size, style and effectiveness of our next kick. Oh, no; San Diego knows when it has a soft thing—to kick at.

The State Division Myth-San Diego,

The State Division Myth—San Diego,
Arizona.

[National City Record:] The advocates of State division, who are numerous in this county, do not probably realize that the fulfillment of their wish is attended by difficulties much greater than those of the proposition advanced by this paper. It may be set down as an indisputable fact that California can never be divided with-out the cooperation of Los Angeles, in the first place, and the consent of the northern part of the State in the second. Neither of these could be obtained today, nor will Los Angeles, while given her legitimate share of State patronage, take the lead, as she must to make it successful, in a State division movement.

It is folly for the San Diego State Division League to think that this county can be the leader in a State division movement. Los Angeles and the country tributary to it embrace the bulk both of the population and of the wealth of Southern California, and at the very beginning must take the lead. We can only follow and subordinate our wishes to those of our immediate northern neighbors. In the framing of a State constitution, were Southern California divided from the North, we would cut a very small figure, since we do not nave over one-eighth of the population that the whole would embrace.

As a part of a new State created out of Arizona and this county, we would come in with the largest city in the State, and, if not the leaders in framing a State constitution, at least possessed of enough weight to be right in with them so that the wishes of the inhabitants of this county would be given place in that important document. The making of San Diego a great city is contingent upon a direct railroad to the East, and we believe that the quickest way to secure it is to cast our fortunes with those of a new State, in which we will be no longer the wagged tall of the dog, but where we will have a certainty of doing some of the wagging ourselves.

"Of Great Value."

[Marseilles (Ill.,) Plaindeafer:] Five cents will secure you the 16-page Mining Number of the Los Angeles, Cal., Times of September 11. From start to finish it would be hard to compress more of interest within that many pages. To the student, the adventure-lover or fortune-seeker the many pictures and able descriptive matter can but prove of great value. The landlord bustles in, smiling affably, and munches a sandwich to give confidence to his guests and show how pleased he is to have them patronizing his little appetizer. His apparition, be it noticed, is followed by an increased rush to the barmaid, and she is busy on the pump handle of the beer engine for some time. The hot dish is soon emptied and replenshed, the sandwiches go one by one, and the cheese is hacked about like an enemy. But punctually at 12 o'clock the comestibles disappear as if by magic, and the free lunch is over for the day. A prominent theatrical manager once called upon Mr. Dana with a grievance against the dramatic editor. In short, he demanded that the said critic be removed from his position, and undertook to impress upon Mr. Dana the person's unfitness. Mr. Laffan was at that 'time the dramatic critic of the Sun. After Mr. Dana had listened politely to the theatrical manager's statement, he said:

This is so powerful that the traveler notes it long before he meets with the growing plants. The pollencollecting insects visit the flower in great numbers. It is believed that cross-fertilization can be effected by these pollen-collecting intruders. At any rate, the fragrance would be thrown away if it were provided for the mere sake of advertising for insect aid—as the other numerous species of lupine which have no fragrance are as freely visited by bees for the sake of the pollen as is this species.

The common Sentiment in Southern Calfornia. The next United States Sengtor, succeeding Stephen M. White, must come from this stephen M. White, must come from this of the State. The South does not care for the Governorship—must not ask for it; but must demand and insist this point has been made before, though with no reference to the philanthropic questions involved. Fragrant flowers are the exception, not the rule. In some families of plants, where there may be several scores of species, only one or two are fragrant. This has been especially noted among the wild species of violet. But no one has so far been able to note the slightest advantage in life economy which the sweet-scented ones possess over the odorless ones.

On the stroke of 11 the principal bar begins to fill up with customers, and a sideboard or center-table is covered with a white cloth. Presently the servants bring in a great round of cheese, two or three loaves of bread, a pile of sandwiches, plates, knives and forks ad lib. This is a mere preliminary canter, and customers scoop off an ounce or two of cheese with the careless air of one who is having only an appetizer. Presently a covered dish or two, hot and steaming, make their appearance, and the privileged habitue lifts the cover with a 'Whât is' there today, John?' PROTECTING RESERVES, Theores-PROTECTING RESERVES. The present law governing the reserve of national banks provides for a reserve of 25 per cent. of the deposits of those banks situated in reserve cities and of 15 per cent. for all other banks. One half the reserve of any bank in any reserve city may consist of deposits in half the reserve of any pank in any re-serve city may consist of deposits in any central reserve city; and for any bank outside of the reserve cities, three-fifths of its reserve may, in like man-ner, consist of deposits with banks fifths of its reserve may, in like manner, consist—of deposits with banks in those cities. The permission to count as cash these deposits, which are really only demands for cash, results in a division of the reserve into cash and the right to demand each. Writing to the United States Investor, a banker makes the following suggestions on this subject. The banks outside of the reserve in the large dities, during the dull season, send their surplus cash to these diese for deposit. The tendency of these deposits is to centralize the reserve in the large dities. The tendency is strengthened by the practice of inviting deposits from country banks by the payment of interest. The opportunity of turning idle cash into an interestable of the cash along habitual transfer of reserve from the country to the city. These accumulations of reserve are largest when the demand for money is light, consequently there is a surplus of idle money, which, in order to earn the promised interest, must be invested. This results in the employment of the funds in such investments a dull market affords. When the

When the market is not dull, these reserves are to a large extent, invested in call loans. So when the country banks have occasion to withdraw their funds, the city banks are often unable to convert banks are often unable to convert banks are often unable to convert banks. shonks are often unable to convert these investments into immediate cash. The plan of the depositing banks is to change them from cash reserves to reserves consisting two-fifths or one-half of cash and the balance of investments in large cities. If the reserve is to be divided into cash and demand for cash, those upon whom the demands are made should be able to meet them with cash. At present their ability to do this depends upon the condition of the market, the amount of their own cash reserve, and the extent and triggency of these demands.

"The abandonment of the payment of interest on deposits would remove this abnormal rendency, of, dividing the reserve between cash in hand and deposits in cities. However, owing to the

"The portion which may be deposited in reserve cities should be limited to the needs of actual business. No bank should be allowed to deposit any part of its reserve in any other bank with the hope or expectation of receiving interest upon it. The payment of interest upon deposits of reserve should be strictly prohibited.

"The investment of any part of the reserve should be restricted to government securities."

GETTING OUT OF DEBT. The American of Philadelphia publishes a long and able article on national finances, under the head "Are We Getting Out of Debt?" That depends, somewhat. If a man's income is $2000 a year, and he spends $2010, he is certainly not getting out of debt, while if he only spends $1990 he may be geting out—to a limited extent.

The buyer wished to obtain a full carload of seedling oranges, and offered $2.25 for them. This is said to be the earliest shipment of oranges, specially of seedlings, ever made from lighland, and perhaps from Southern Calfornia. The oranges went to New York. Brokers are said to be offering 3 cents per pound net for navel oranges at dighland, and proportionate prices for other varieties. Growers are not it a hurry to sell.

There has been much discussion in the Redlands-Highand section regarding the price at which oranges for the Christmas trade should be sold. An attempt has been made to fix an arbitrary-price, but many object to this, preferring to leave the price to the law of supply and demand, believing that there will be a good demand for all the early fruit that can be obtained.

The Azusa Pomotropic denies that Highland produces the earliest oranges in Southern California. It claims that the credit for the first tipe granges belongs to Glendora, and that there are no oranges in Southern California so early as those raised in the foothills of the San Gabriel Valley.

The matter of accepting Second street will come before the City Trustees Tuesday, it having been made the special order for that day, to open the way for a general discussion of the questien. The street has been accepted as a street, but it is, now asked that it be accepted under the Vrooman Act, which implies that all future improvements to the street must be at the expense of the city at large, and not by the property-holders. SIDE LIGHTS ON A SUICIDE.

Clarence B. M. Cole, the colored barber who shot his paramour and then committed stricke in Los Angeles on Sunday, has a wife living in Redlands. She is a comely young colored woman, who for nearly a year past has supported herself by the successful conducting of a modest laddes hair-dressing establishment on State street.

With eyes blinded by, tears of grief over the husband who had forsaken her, the told her story to the Times reporter, and it bore the impress of truth.

She saw him in Los Angeles last April, when he gave her $5, and that was the last he contributed to her support. The last time-she saw him was at Santa Monica-last September. He called at the place where she was stopping for a few weeks, and asked her if she would consent to live with him again. She had heard of his Los Angeles intrigue, and she told him she thought it would be better for them to remain apart. There was no quarrel, and he acquiesced in her decision.

The next news Mrs. Cole received was Sunday night, when a dispatch advised her of her faithless husband's death. Cole led rather a wild life in Redlands, and was several times brought into public prominence on account of affairs that did not 'redound to his credit.

CHNO, Nov. I.—{Regular Corespondence]}
The weekly shooting scrape among the Chino Mexicans took place Sunday morning, three miles from town, at what is known as the east camp, and it is not the fault of the assailant that the slaughter was not great. There was a general drunken dance, attended by a large number of Mexicans, which lasted all Saturday night. and about 6 o'clock Sunday morning, when the affair was about to disband, a man named Maldinado suddenly drew a 35-caliber revolver and began shouting the praise of Mexico and Mexicans, emphasizing his expressions by shooting the pistol. He fired five shots at random through the crowd, though but one shot did effective work. It hit Francisco Ygerro in the groin, glanced from a bone, burying itself in the interior muscles. The ball fortunately missed all arteries and hit no necessarily fatal spot. For two hours the man lay on the ground without attendance, while those who had participated in the debauch siept. Dr. G. A. Broughton, who attended the man, thinks there is a possibility of his recovering.

Dist.-Atty. Dailey will be over Tuesday morning, when Maldino will be given a hearing before Justice Rhodes.

Cummings had left the Tribune but a short time before the transformation of the Sun was projected, and Mr. Dana appreciating the value of such an assistant, sent for him and told him: "We want you to become managing editor of the Sun." "All right," said Cummings. "But first," continued Mr. Dana. I would like to ask you why you left the Tribune."

"I was discharged," replied Amos, "for insolence and profanity," and waiting, expecting some expression of surprise or question as to the facts, but there was nothing of the sort. Mr. Dana looked over his glasses and his eyes twinkled as he replied: "When are they going to discharge Greeley?"

Mr. Cummings, recalling his long association with him, narrates a happily illustrative incident.

the Words Came to Be Adopte as a Motto for Coins.

Rochester, N. Y., Herald: Mr.*Preston, Director of the Mint, has rundown theorigin of the motto, "In God We Trust," to be found on our coins. It appears the first suggestion of such a motto came probably from W. R. Watkinson of Ridleyville, Pa., who signed himself a "minister of the gospel." His letter to Secretary Chase on the subject was dated November 13, 1861. He said:
"You are probably a Christian. What if our republic were now shattered beyond recognition? Would not the antiquaries of succeeding centuries rightly reason from our past that we were a heathen fation? What I propose is that instead of the Goddess of Liberty we shall have next inside the thirteen stars a ring inscribed with the words perpetual union, within this ring the all-seeing eye, crowned with a halo; bearing in its field stars equal to the number of the States united; in the folds of the bars the words, 'God, liberty, law.' This would make a beautiful coin, to which no possible citizen could object. This would relieve us rould object. This would relieve us from the ignominy of heathenism. This from the ignominy of heathenism. This would place us openly under the divine protection we have personally claimed. From my heart I have felt our national shame in disowning God as not the least of our present national disasters. To you first, I address a subject that must be agitated."

Whether moved by this letter or not, Secretary Chase wrote as follows, on November 20, a week later, to the Director of the Mint in Philadelphia: "No nation can be strong except in the strength of God or safe except in His defense. The trust of our people in God should be declared on our national coins. You will cause a device to be prepared without unnecessary delay with a motto expressing in the fewest vith a motto expressing in the fewest and tersest words possible this na-tional recognition." As it was found that the Director of the Mint had no that the Director of the Mint had no authority over the mottoes to be placed on our coins, Congress having by a law bassed in 1837 provided for them, he prepared his designs and submitted them to the Secretary. The mottoes suggested were: "Our Country; Our God," and "God Our Trust." In reply the Secretary wrote: "I approve your mottoes, only suggesting... that the first should hegin, with 'Our God,' so as to read, 'Our God and Our Country,' and that the motto on the shield should be changed so as to read, instead of 'God, Our Trust,' 'In God We Trust."

The Tall Man in the Berth.

The Tall Man in the Berth.

There was one story of his career that Mr. Pullman told with manifest delight, which is thus related by an intimate friend:

One night going out of Chicago, a long, lean, ugly man, with a wart on his cheek, came into the depot. He paid George M. Pullman 50 cents, and half a berth was assigned him. Then he took off his coat and vest and hung them up, and they fitted the peg as well as they fitted him. Then he kicked off his boots, which were of surprising length, turned into the berth, and having an easy conscience, was sleeping like a healthy baby before the car left the depot. Along came another passenger and paid his 50 cents. In two minutes he was back at George Pullman.

"There's a man in that herth of man.

"There's a man in that berth of mine," said he, hotly, "and he's about ten feet high. How am I going to sleep there, I'd like to know? Go and look at him."

In went Pullman—mad, too. The tall, lank man's knees were under his chin his arms were stretched across the bed and his feet were stored comfortably—for him. Pullman shook him until he awoke, and then told him if he wanted the whole berth he would have to pay $1.

"My dear sir," said the tall man, "a contract is a contract. I have paid you 50 cents for half this berth, and, as you see, I'm occupying it. There's the other half," pointing to a strip about six inches wide. "Sell that and don't disturb me again." And so saying, the man with a warf on his face went to sleep again. He was Abraham Lincoln.

But that is not all. A cigar manufactory has offered her a large sum for the privilege of using her picture on its boxes. A theatrical manager, who believes that the first evidence of his trionic genius is the ability to get one's self advertised, has offered her a place in one of his companies.

Editor Gilders' Sense of Humor.

A young American composer, who, having been educated abroad, is a stranger when at home in New York, expressed his wish to have some "words" written for musical settling. "Why don't you go around to the Century shop?" suggested a wag of his acquaintance. "They keep a regular staff of poets and sonneteers there, who write all the verses that are published in the magazine. No doubt they'd be glad of an outside job. Ask for Mr. Gilder." The young musician took this advice in all seriousness, went around to the offices in Union Square, sent in his card, and was duly ushered into the editorial presence, where he stated his business-like proposition. Mr. Gilder listened with emotions that probably were of a mixed character, and then suavely replied: "I regret that I must decline, with thanks—not on account of literary merit, but—well, the fact is, we are just now working overtime on Grant's memoirs and dialect stories, But I can recommend, a first-class professional poet, who ought to stories. But I cân recommend a first-class prefessional poet, who ought to give you satisfaction. Go to R. H. Stoddard, in Fifteenth street." Some-what disappointed, the visitor withdrew to the outer office, casually inquiring there: "What does this man Gilder do about here, anyway?" "Oh," an-swered a clerk, "for the last sixteen years he has been a kind of editing the magazine, you know." The fol-lower of the Muses departed in search of Mr. Stoddard.

Couldn't Lift Her.

[Philadelphia Encuirer:] Little things sometimes change the destinies of men. There is in Philadelphia a man who abandoned the theatrical profession because he could not lift Fanny Davenport. He was a member of one of the local stock companies, about twenty years ago, when Miss Davenport came to Philadelphia with one of the men of her compnay sick. He was cast for the part of Calus Lucius, in "Cymbeline," and the business of the part required that he should take Miss Davenport in his arms and carry her off the stage. The lady weighed considerably more than he did and when he attempted to pick her up he found that his strength was not equal to the task. His struggles caused the audience to laugh, and that spoiled a good scene. He was so humiliated that he left the profession after that engagement.

"It will be remembered that last August M. Joseph Reinach devoted to this book of Hugo's a charming talk, and did not hesitate to recommend them (the students in the school) to read it, as one of the most attractive and instructive books which could occupy their vacations. M. Reinach doubtless did not think that he was reommending an immoral book. In America, however, one judges differently. What is healthy on this side of the ocean is vicious on that. And one would be tempted to excuse Nisard for having said that there are two moralities, if its were not too apparent that in this case commercial interest alone is in play."

The "White Coach" Again.

The other day the Road Coach Guide The other day the Road Coach Guide, an English publication, reproduced a picture that purported to be a photograph of Washington's state coach, the famous "white charlot," covered with chickens of all sorts and conditions, and underneath the old state carriage was the statement: "A coach with a record. The state coach of President Washington, in which he rode to Congress, now used as an old hen-roost by his grateful and appreciative countrymen."

This was mere facetiousness on the part of John Bull. He had taken a photograph of one of Washington's old carriages that is fealously preserved in its original old coach-house at Mount Vernon and added a few chickens and

J. M. Guinn gave a review of the work of the society during the past fourfeen wears. It was organized November 1, 1883. Of the fifteen persons who took part in the organization, seven are dead, four have dropped out of the society, and only four are now members. One hundred and seventy-eight members have been enrolled since the society was organized. Death, non-payment of dues, and removal from the city have reduced the membership to about one hundred. The society has issued twelve annual publications, making three volumes of valuable history. It has expended over $2000 in publication, and the purchase of books and curios. Its receipts from donations amount to about $2000. Its publications may be found in the principal libraries of the United States and have found their way into Europe, Australia and Canada.

Worth Thousands of Dollars in Gold Found Five Feet Below the Point Where Work Was-Stopped in 1860.

Reports of rich finds in the Plute out little or nothing in the way of facts ut the district has been attainable antil yesterday, when F. O. Wilkinson, in expolice officer of this city and owner of the Wheel of Fortune mine in the Plute-Basin, arrived here.

"Heve we struck it rich?" asked Wil-kinson, "well, we think we have. I have been a practical working miner r over twenty years, and I would far kinson, "well, we think we have. I have beert a practical working miner for over twenty years, and I would far rather have my Piute mine than all the mines I have ever owned put together. "It's no use for people to rush intothe Piute district, as all the claims are new taken. It is not a new district by any means. Mexicans and Indians worked it years and years ago, but their appliances were too crude to-reach the gold except that obtained by placer mining. "The mine I own was abandoned in 1860. The owners had washed down to the water level, and scraped off all the free-milling ore to a depth of fifty feet, and there quit work and abandoned the mine.

"I left the police force here and went to Randsburg, but soon tired of that-country and struck out for Piute. The mines are on the top of a table mountain in Kern county, about fifty miles northeast of Mojave. They are away from all civilization, and lie in a basin 6600 feet above the sea level. Approach the mountain which way you will, the climb is the same to reach the hollow top where the mines lie. We have no appliances there for working sulphide eres, and that-is what brought me to Los Angeles. We want a mill and a concentrator in the basin, and will soon have them.

"I bought the old abandoned Wheel of Fortune mine. I went to the bottom of the fifty-foot shaft and commenced sinking deeper. I struck sulphide ores at once. I have gone down only 55 feet, or five feet lower than the shaft in 1860, and yet here are the assays of the ore I have taken out. At 52 feet the ore runs $256 to the ton in gold; at 53 feet, $368 to the ton; at 54 feet, $606, and at 55 feet, $504 to the ton in gold.

"At 55 feet I stopped work and came home to arrange for the machinery to handle the ore I have in sight. What is below $55 feet I do not know, nor do I care very much. as I have a fortune in sight as it is now. The old miners knew the rich ore was there, but in their day there was no known way of extracting the gold from the old arastras worked years ago. with the free-milling o

About eighty of us are in camp now

"About eighty of us are in camp now, and we are preparing for the winter. We have lots of snow upon the mountain, but we have as well any quantity of water and timber. Today—I was offered all the machinery I need for a quarter interest in my mine, but declined the offer.

"There may not be an ounce of paying rock beloy the 55-foot level, but I am going to take chances. All the other mines in the basin are paying: that is, the ore will pay when we get a mill, but just how rich it is we do not know. I return to the mines today for the winter, and next spring you will hear from there. In my opinion the Piute Basin will prove richer than Cripple Creek inside of two years."

It was learned yesterday that two

Creek inside of two years."

It was learned yesterday that two companies of eastern capitalists have secured interests in abandoned mines in the Piute Basin, which will be worked, and the investors will put up a mill and build a concentrator soon. The assays given by Mr. Wilkinson are official, and the assayer pronounces the ore the richest sulphide he ever handled.

"Echoes of the Revolution." He had recently discovered files of two old English magazines, one the English Magazine, London, 1782; the other, the Political Magazine, London, 1787. Each number of the English magazine contained a summary of the parliamentary debates of the month. The burden of these was the American war. From these pages, in the very words of the actors themselves. Americans may learn how many friends they had in the British Parliament, or, rather, what a strong opposition the mad policy of a mad King had in the councils of the government itself.

Mrs. M. Burton Williamson read a paper on the cantilever bridge og the Colorado. The principle of the cantilever was known to the Japanese 200 years ago. The Colorado bridge was begun in September, 1889, and completed in May, 1890. The building of such a bridge is extremely dangerous, but the loss on the cantilever at the Needles was only three lives. The usual loss in building is from ten to twelve.

as possible will be gathered up of the food that is wasted daily at hotels and restaurants. 'Many of these are more than willing to give if the food can only be collected and taken care of properly for distribution.

This does not mean the collection of kitchen refuse, but of the loads of good and well-cooked food which are daily taken back to the kitchen after the serving of abundant or elaborate orders. Enough excellent food to feed every poor and hungry family in the city is thrown away eyery day.

It is Capt. Frazier's purpose this winter to give special attention to the relief of suffering families. Hitherto all his efforts have been directed toward the assistance of the men who drift into the city every year as regularly as the seasons come around. Plenty of work can be found for these men this year, and help is needed now by the women and children.

In the work of collection and distribution, two wagens will be required, and money will be needed to purchase or hire the teams and drivers. Capt. Frazier hopes to secure contributions in monthly installments in sufficient amounts to pay the expenses of the work.
